SUMMARY OF ESSENTIAL ELEMENTS OF CITING/REFEREE'S REPORT/FOOTAGE

The Referee, Nigel Owens issued the Player with a Red Card in the 16th minute of a match played between England and Argentina on Saturday, 5 October 2019 at Tokyo Stadium for a breach of Law 9.13 of the Laws of the Game. Law 9.13 is in the following terms:

"A player must not tackle an opponent early, late or dangerously. Dangerous tackling includes, but is not limited to, tackling or attempting to tackle an opponent above the line of the shoulders even if the tackle starts below the line of the shoulders."

The Referee in his report stated that "Argentina #5 whilst attempting a tackle made direct contact to the head with his shoulder. There were no mitigating factors."

The report by the TMO (Television Match Official) was in identical terms to the Referee's report. The two Assistant Referees also submitted reports in similar terms to the Referee adding that they reviewed the incident with the Referee and the TMO on-field and agreed there was no sudden drop or mitigation.

ESSENTIAL ELEMENTS OF OTHER EVIDENCE (e.g. medical reports)

The victim player, Owen Farrell (England #12) provided a written statement, relevantly, in the following terms:

"I recall seeing the player approach [Argentina #5] and braced for contact. His shoulder/arm hit my head.

I was not injured or concussed by the contact and went on to complete the game. My neck was stiff as you would expect from contact of that kind.

Overnight I received a text apology from the Argentinian player concerned."

Dr Robert Young, England Team Doctor, also provided a written statement where he recorded the following:

"I can confirm that Owen Farrell [England #12] did not seek medical attention at the time of the incident, nor did he subsequently ask for assistance. He did not suggest he was injured as a result of the contact. His only report was of a feeling of stiffness in his neck immediately after the incident."

SUMMARY OF PLAYER'S EVIDENCE

The Player at the first available opportunity accepted he committed an act of Foul Play by breaching Law 9.13 by effecting a dangerously high tackle on England #12. The Player also accepted that his act of Foul Play warranted a Red Card and accordingly did not seek to challenge his Ordering Off. The Player described his actions as follows.

The ball had been passed to the ball carrier (England #12) who was relatively deep. The Player then proceeded to run at an angle towards the right hand side of the field. His angle was approximately diagonal towards the corner post (RWCL Video at 0:25 to 0:28).

The Player can then be seen starting outside the previous ruck, in line with England #3 who was standing in front of England #12. The ball then passes behind England #3 to England #12 who becomes the ball carrier (RWCL Video at 0:27).

The Player, having seen the ball pass behind England #3, adjusts his line to go around England #3 in order to engage England #12. The Player stated that he did not have a clear line of sight until England #12 cleared the visual obstruction caused by England #3.

The Player then moved towards England #12 in an attempt to tackle him. The Player submitted that he approached England #12 at a legal height, albeit towards the ball and upper chest. However, in the moments before contact, England #12 stepped off his right foot, effectively stopping his momentum to the right. This, the Player submitted, had the consequence of bringing England #12 back towards the Player but also causing a drop in England #12's height. As a result, the Player tackled him high.

The Player fully accepted that his shoulder made contact with England #12's head.

The Player also submitted that his actions were not intentional but were reckless. Although he submitted that he started at a legal height, he accepted that any drop in height by England #12 was likely to result in contact above the line of the shoulders and accordingly, to the Player's credit, he accepted that he should have started his tackle lower and that the Referee was correct to issue him a Red Card.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The video footage is broadly consistent with the Player's description of the incident. The Judicial Panel accepted the Player's admissions that his actions amounted to a breach of Law 9.13 and that his offending warranted a Red Card by the Referee. The video footage clearly demonstrated that the Player's left shoulder comes into forceful contact with the left hand side of England #12's head, the ball carrier, when the Player is attempting to wrap his arms around England #12 to effect a tackle. The Referee was correct to issue a Red Card and order the Player from the playing enclosure, in doing so the Referee had regard to World Rugby's High Tackle Sanction Framework and correctly found, in our opinion, consistent with the Player's admissions, that there was:

Firstly, clear contact to the head of the ball carrier, England #12 by the Player's left shoulder;
Secondly, the degree of danger to the ball carrier, England #12 was high; and
Thirdly, there was no mitigation to bring the Foul Play below the Red Card threshold.

We accepted the Player's submission that he should have started his tackle lower and that his actions, whilst not intentional, were nonetheless reckless as he knew, or should have known, that there was a risk of committing an act of Foul Play.

Accordingly, we upheld the Red Card issued by the Referee.

SANCTIONING PROCESS

ASSESSMENT OF SERIOUSNESS

Assessment of Intent – R 17.19.2(a)-(b) (or equivalent Tournament rule)
Intentional/deliberate <input type="checkbox"/> Reckless <input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
State Reasons
The Player's actions were reckless, in that he knew, or should have known, that by not starting his tackle at a lower height there existed a risk, when effecting the tackle, that his arm or shoulder would rise above the line of the shoulders of England #12 and make contact with England #12's head in breach of the Laws of the Game.
Gravity of player's actions – R 17.19.2(c) (or equivalent Tournament rule)
The Player's actions were grave as his left shoulder made forceful contact with England #12's head. England #12 was placed in a vulnerable position by reason of the Player's actions and the risk of injury to him was obvious.

Acknowledgement of guilt and timing – R 17.19.5(a) (or equivalent Tournament rule)	Player’s disciplinary record/good character – R 17.19.5(b) (or equivalent Tournament rule)
The Player made full and frank admissions at the first available opportunity.	The Player’s record is as follows:                  2014 – 1 week sanction for charging into a ruck (aged 21 yrs);                  2015 – 1 week sanction for charging into a ruck (aged 22 yrs);                  2016 – 1 week sanction for striking with the knee (aged 23 yrs);                  2016 – 2 week sanction for dangerous charging (aged 23 yrs); and                  2017 – a Red Card for two yellow cards in the same match resulting in no further sanction. As can be seen the Player has never received a sanction for dangerous tackling and has had no sanctions imposed upon him since 2016, a period of three years. This can be attributed to professional development he has personally undertaken since 2016 to address his earlier offending and, perhaps also, to his maturing as a player. The four sanctions he received prior to 2016, in the main, related to dangerous charging and all occurred when the Player was a young and inexperienced player.

He commenced playing first class rugby at 19 years of age (2012) and earned his first Test cap for Argentina when he was 20 years of age (2013).	The Player was respectful and conducted himself appropriately, as one would expect of a player of his standing. The Player was candid in his exchanges with the Judicial Panel.
Remorse and timing of remorse – R 17.19.5(e) (or equivalent Tournament rule)	Other off-field mitigation – R 17.19.5(f) (or equivalent Tournament rule)
